FAQ

What is Leadership Seminar?

The NCCTM Leadership Seminar is a full-day professional learning event designed specifically for mathematics leaders who are shaping math education across North Carolina. This seminar offers opportunities to engage with national and state experts, discuss current challenges in the field, and explore research-based practices that support systemic transformation in math teaching and learning. It's not just about classroom instruction—it's about leading for impact across schools, districts, and the state.

Who should attend?

The seminar is designed for individuals in leadership roles within mathematics education—district math supervisors, instructional coaches, curriculum specialists, university faculty, teacher leaders, and others who support math instruction at a systems level and influence broader instructional decisions and implementation efforts.

What makes this seminar different from the general NCCTM conference?

While the general conference offers a wide range of sessions for all math educators, the Leadership Seminar focuses specifically on the unique challenges and opportunities facing math leaders. It includes specialized sessions on policy, systemic improvement, coaching, and strategic leadership in mathematics education.

Can I attend both the Leadership Seminar and the NCCTM State Math Conference?

Yes! The Leadership Seminar takes place on Wednesday, November 13, 2025, the day before the main NCCTM conference begins (November 14–15). Many participants attend both events to maximize their professional learning, however you must register separately for each event. Registration for Leadership Seminar is $80 for members and $110 for non-members. Click here to register today!
